By 2nd Lt. Beth Tucker
355th Wing Public Affairs

The Davis-Monthan Security Forces and law enforcement from all over the Tucson area continuously work together to protect and defend the Tucson community. National Police Week, Monday through May 15, gives the community an opportunity to meet and recognize the people who put their lives on the line every day.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for the community and law enforcement to get together," said Tech. Sgt. Scott Legge, 355th Security Forces co-National Police Week coordinator and Pima County Sheriff's Department deputy.

"Our Airmen do not just live on base. They live in the local communities. The law enforcement agencies that protect our Airmen off-base are part of the bigger force protection picture," said Lt. Col. Shannon Jurrens, 355th SFS commander.

The week will kick off for the D-M community Tuesday with the distribution of blue ribbons and Operation Identification at the base exchange and commissary from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Students at Borman and Smith Elementary

CCAF graduation reminds Airmen you can achieve too

The Spring 2004 Community College of the Air Force's graduation is scheduled to be held at The Mirage Officers' Club May 14 at 2 p.m. and will be followed by an educational fair for those aspiring to further their education.

The CCAF awards Associate of Applied Science Degrees in individual's Air Force Specialty.

Members of the Air Force are automatically enrolled into the CCAF while in Basic Military Training; however they must obtain their five-skill-level in their career fields prior to achieving their specified degree.

"A degree regardless of what it is, tells your employer (that) you're trainable and college educated," said Rafael Maldonado, 355th Mission Support Squadron education

Base focuses on safety

By Staff Sgt. Tammie Clark
355th Wing Public Affairs

Members of the D-M community will take a day to focus on the importance of safety on- and off-duty May 14 by participating in a base-wide safety day.

"Everything we do, whether we are at work, driving, exercising, at home, etc., involves risk," said Michael Barnes, 355th Wing ground safety manager. A key message that will be stressed during Safety Day is the use of personal risk management to ensure summer trips and recreation are fun and safe.

Safety Day will kick off Thursday at 11 p.m. with a high risk briefing for Airmen 26 years and under for swing shift workers, followed by briefings May 14 at 9 and 11 a.m. for day shift and mid-shift workers. Additionally, a flight safety meeting is scheduled to be held at 1 p.m.

A survey to identify work area hazards will be conducted by supervisors, said Mr. Barnes. "Col.

PFE distribution

Concern: Why don't we issue a copy of Air Force Pamphlet 36-2241, Volume 1, Promotion Fitness Examination Study Guide, to every enlisted Airman in accordance with Air Force Instruction 36-2201, Version 2? Currently, only Airmen testing for promotion are issued the book.

As a senior NCO, I think that this is an essential ingredient in developing and nurturing well-rounded, professional and competent future Air Force leaders. There is no cost to the units, and the benefits are great.

Response: You are right. The Promotion Fitness Exam Study Guide, Air Force Pamphlet 36-2241, Volume 2, is an excellent source of information that develops all Airmen. There is no reason why each enlisted member doesn't have a current hard copy of it!

Each unit has a designated publications monitor who has or can obtain an e-Publishing user account for on-line ordering through the Air Force Publishing Web site. With this account they can obtain or order as many manuals as needed for their entire unit.

Until the PFEs arrive please note that all Air Force members can view the on-line version of the PFE through the Air Force Publishing Web site www.e-publishing.af.mil. If you have any questions, contact your unit publications monitor or your unit's orderly room.

Supporting each other and working together to provide the best programs and services is a goal for the entire Desert Lightning Team at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base.

Ideas, suggestions, comments, concerns and compliments are important to make improvements.

The best way to pass along a comment or to get an answer to a concern is to contact the agency chief or functional managers listed below. Still no solution? Call the Commander's Corner phone line to leave a message and have your comment answered. The phone number is 228-4747. An e-mail can also be sent to: 355thWing.CommandersCorner@dm.af.mil.

Callers must leave their name, phone number and a message to receive a personal response. They will receive a prompt reply in writing or by telephone by the coordinating Davis-Monthan unit. We will honor caller confidentiality in print, but sometimes additional information is required by supporting agencies to fully address the issue. If a concern is of general interest to the base populace and fits in one of the four main themes at Davis-Monthan, the question and response may be published in the Desert Airman.

Davis-Monthan Unit Public Affairs Representatives

If there is a Unit Public Affairs Representative not listed here, or a unit at Davis-Monthan that is not represented, please contact 2nd Lt. Beth Tucker at 228-5714 or send an e-mail to beth.tucker@dm.af.mil. This is the official list of the UPAR program.

Please note: A Unit Public Affairs Representative training meeting will be held June 4 at 1 p.m. in the wing conference room. All UPARs must attend. Details on the program, requirements and upcoming training schedules will be discussed.

Unit Public Affairs Representatives are the "eyes and ears" of the 355th Wing Public Affairs office. Each squadron has unique individuals that have interesting stories to tell, whether it is about sports, awards, lifesaving acts, IDEA program contributions, etc.

Stories also include units making improvements to the methods or processes that they use or to squadron facilities or community areas via self help projects.

UPARs are responsible for getting the information to PA in a usable format and in a timely manner.

The Public Affairs staff focuses on issues that effect the base populace in general and UPARs judge the input for newsworthiness or unique human interest appeal before forwarding it to the PA staff.

Public Affairs utilizes UPARs to better tell a squadron's story. UPAR responsibilities include:

- u Provide news ideas as well as write and shoot photos of squadron activities for submission to the base newspaper;
- u Review and solicit Hometown News Release submissions;
- u Review squadron submissions to the base marquee and Commander's Access Channel (COX Communications Channel 74)
- u Seek volunteers for tours and speaking engagements

[Larry] Stutzriem, [355th Wing commander], expects all personnel to be fully engaged in the hazard surveys."

Traffic surveys to identify hazards around buildings and in parking lots will also be conducted by supervisors. In addition, groups will conduct traffic surveys to identify roadway hazards from 22nd Street to Valencia Road and Kolb Road to Alvernon Way.

Airmen receive UCMJ punishment

◆A technical sergeant from the 355th Aircraft Maintenance Squadron received a suspended reduction to staff sergeant, forfeitures of $100 pay per month for two months and 15 days extra duty for dereliction of duty (failing to properly perform required maintenance and inspections). This was a violation of Article 92 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

◆A staff sergeant from the 355th AMXS received a suspended reduction to senior airman, forfeitures of $100 pay per month for two months and 15 days extra duty for dereliction of duty (failing to properly perform required maintenance and inspections). This was a violation of Article 92 of the UCMJ.

◆An airman first class from the 612th Air Communications Squadron received a reduction to airman basic and a reprimand for driving under the influence of alcohol, dereliction of duty (underage drinking) and for reporting to work while drunk. These were a violation of Articles 111, 92 and 112 of the UCMJ.

◆An airman first class from the 355th AMXS received a reduction to airman, a suspended forfeiture of $100 pay per month for two months and 14 days extra duty for dereliction of duty (underage drinking). This was a violation of Article 92 of the UCMJ.

◆An airman first class from the 355th AMXS received a reduction to airman, a suspended forfeiture of $100 pay per month for two months, and 14 days extra duty for physically controlling a vehicle while drunk. This was a violation of Article 111 of the UCMJ.

By being aware of PRM, individuals can make a conscious effort to act safer. The thought process of PRM takes a common sense approach to determining hazards and helping to reduce or eliminate them through good planning. Examples of this are using seat belts, stretching before exercise and wearing all personal protective equipment while riding a motorcycle, said Mr. Barnes.

Holding safety events are important because they help to identify and eventually eliminate hazards both on- and off-base and get Airmen prepared for a safe summer, said Mr. Barnes.

◆An airman from the 25th Operational Weather Squadron was discharged under Air Force Instruction 36-3208, 5.49, for minor disciplinary infractions supported by two Article 15 punishments, two letters of counseling, one letter of reprimand and one letter of admonishment.

◆A senior airman from the 355th AMXS was discharged under AFI 36-3208, 5.49, for minor disciplinary infractions supported by three letters of reprimand and one letter of counseling.

AFREP saves cash, repairs 'unfixable' equipment

Photos and story by Staff Sgt. Tammie Clark
355th Wing Public Affairs

The Air Force Repair and Enhancement Program office at Davis-Monthan may seem like any other office at first glance but in reality, they are much more. This fiscal year they have already saved D-M $3.5 million.

Formally known throughout the base as Gold Flag, the AFREP has made a name for themselves as being the team that is able to repair what was considered unfixable electro-mechanical equipment.

Gold Flag was established in 1992 after maintenance technicians realized the Air Force was throwing away expendable items which could be repaired at a cost cheaper than purchasing new items. Since its implementation, the program has been established on 19 Air Combat Command bases, along with 10 major commands, saving taxpayers more than $190 million since 1999.

The seven-person office consisting of four technicians, two supply liaisons and a manager all work together to fix most any product carried through the front door, said Master Sgt. Reinhard Schick, AFREP manager. The AFREP members are hand picked from other career fields to become part of this team. This allows every team member to bring knowledge from a different background with them making the team more versatile.

"Our technicians attend a six week soldering course on base," said Sergeant Schick. "After that, every eighteen months they have to recertify in soldering.

Additionally, team technicians attend a two-week course at Norfolk Naval Station, Va., where they learn to trouble shoot and map circuit cards."

"The services of the program are open to all military units," said Sergeant Schick. The primary equipment worked by the office includes aircraft parts and test equipment. Additionally, repairs are also performed on items ranging from motor pool equipment, printers, fax machines and even the explosive ordnance disposal's bomb robot.

"Our technicians can repair a wide range of equipment, depending on the needs of the unit, but the focus of the program is to optimize mission capability," said Linda Smith, AFREP supply technician.

When mission capable parts required for aircraft are received by the AFREP team they receive special priority. For these pieces, cost savings are not an issue.

"So far this fiscal year we have had 85 MICAPs processed through the shop," said Sergeant Schick. "All of which the shop repaired."

Other items that are not considered MICAP will be repaired if the cost to do so does not exceed 75 percent of the replacement cost. To determine a replacement price a cost calculator is used which compares the cost of replacement to the labor standard cost and the repair cost.

"The AFREP program enables money that has been saved to remain on base," said Sergeant Schick. In Fiscal Year 2003 the team saved the Air Force $4.4 million, of which $1.9 million was invested to provide numerous quality of life improvements for the Davis-Monthan community.

"We are proud of the swift product turnover rate and the ability to adapt to challenges. Our technicians are continually looking for new projects," said Ms. Smith.

For more information about the AFREP shop, call 228-2411.

Staff Sgt. John Hart, Air Force Repair Enhancement Program circuit card repair technician, conducts circuit card maintenance. To do this, he performs a mini-solder to remove components to replace a part while using a microscope to better view the card.

Government Travel Card payments payable on line

Government travel card payments have been payable for military and civilian personnel via the internet since March.

MyEasyPayment from Bank of America is used when the split disbursement does not pay the bill in-full. When this occurs, log on to the Web site at www.myeasypayment.com to pay the outstanding balance.

Although split disbursement of GTC payments is mandatory for military members and, by default, for civilians, there are a number of situations when the split disbursed amount does not cover the total GTC charges. For example, the loss of a credit card receipt or a mistake made on the travel voucher that reduces the total payment will subsequently change the amount split disbursed, or delay the processing of the voucher. In these situations a residual balance may remain on the GTC even though the split disbursed payment was put in for.

"Travelers can pay the residual amount not covered by split disbursement directly from their account," said 1st Lt. Robin Smith, 355th Comptroller Squadron financial services flight commander. "There is no need to wait for the bill to mail a payment in."

As with any other credit card, it is the cardholder's responsibility to reconcile the statement and keep track of their charges. The balance can be obtained at any time by calling the toll free number on the back of the GTC.

The payment feature is available to all GTC cardholders.

To pay the bill, the dollar amount that needs to be paid will need to be entered with your GTC account number and security code from the back of the card. The personal checking account and bank routing number from the person making the payment will also be required to pay on-line.

For more information, call Bank of America's customer service hotline at 1-800-472-1424.

D-M fire fighters send thanks to community

Joshua Klein, son of Jim and Maj. Nancy Klein, 355th Aerospace Medicine Squadron, adds his donation to others in Airman 1st Class Robert Terrell's boot. The D-M Fire Department's 'Fill the boot' campaign highlighted the out pouring of support from the D-M community. Members of the community donated more than $3,800 to the Air Force Assistance Fund. According to members of the D-M Fire Department, it is a privilege to serve such a generous and giving community.

counselor. "While you are in the Air Force, a CCAF degree increases the chance of below-the-zone, (Stripes for Exceptional Performers) promotion or promotion points towards the 'super grades' (senior master sergeant and chief master sergeant)."

"For senior NCOs, having your CCAF gives you an edge when competing for higher rank," said Master Sgt. Wendy Brazier, 12th Air Force Personnel Programs superintendent. "Since your CCAF is tied to your career field, it only enhances what you bring to your job and the mission, regardless if you are a senior NCO, NCO or Airman."

According to Mr. Maldonado, the CCAF degree has to be done in the individual's AFSC because the student's technical school and internship are the degree's core courses.

The amount of time it takes to achieve a degree may vary, depending on how many credits the associated technical school and previous education credits provide.

"The associate's degree is 64 credit hours," said Michelle Marinelli, 355th Mission Support Squadron education counselor. "The amount of time depends on the number of credits they receive from technical school. The longer technical schools can give some service members half of their (needed) credits."

"We recommend that service members review their CCAF degree with a counselor," Ms. Marinelli said. "All requirements will be reviewed with them in order to know what classes or College Level Examination Program texts they need to get started."

"Education nurtures and develops our Airmen by challenging their minds and providing them options to learn about any subject area they desire to study," Ms. Marinelli said. "Education can open up doors to future military and civilian job opportunities."

"It's important to me to continue my education because it will ultimately help me achieve my personal and professional goals," Sergeant Brazier said.

After the graduation, the education fair will have more than 15 colleges on hand with brochures to describe the school and degree programs offered. The fair will be held from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Palo Verde Room. Representatives from the base education office will be available to answer student's questions.

"I recommend you start as early in your career as you can to get your degree," Sergeant Brazier said. "Education is the foundation of our knowledge. Knowledge is power."

Schools on base will have the opportunity Monday to talk and work with the 355th SFS Airman and the Pima County Sheriffs.

Wednesday will start with a focus on fitness and the 5K National Police Week Memorial Run at 7 a.m. open to the D-M community. The race will begin at Sunglow Road just past the Swan Road Gate. Additionally, children at the Dorothy Finley Child Development Center will be visited by McGruff the crime dog Wednesday morning.

"The benefits to this week are numerous," said Staff Sgt. Jacqueline Faulk, 355th SFS National Police Week co-coordinator. "Besides educating the community on how we can all live in a safer society, it is also beneficial to show the camaraderie of all law enforcement agencies military, civilians and federal."

Thursday will bring a solemn remembrance to the week's events with a retreat ceremony. "We are holding this event to honor those who have fallen and by continuing to do the job that they gave their lives for," said Sergeant Faulk.

The ceremony will include a wreath presentation ceremony in remembrance of all police officers who have lost their lives in the line of duty, a firing party, the playing of Taps, a speech by Colonel Shannon Jurrens and will conclude with the lowering of the U.S. flag performed by the 355th SFS Elite Gate Guardsmen. The ceremony will be in front of the 355th Wing headquarters building and is open to all those interested in honoring and remembering the fallen warriors.

The culmination event to the week will be held May 15 at Davis-Monthan's Heritage Park from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Community Safety Festival will bring many communities together in close interaction with a wide range of police agencies including the 355th SFS, Pima County Sheriff's Department, Department of Public Safety, Pima Community College Police, University of Arizona Police, Oro Valley Police, Sierra Vista Police, Airport Authority, Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Border Patrol and many others. The event is open to the entire Tucson community.

Every agency participating will have something to show and teach those in attendance, such as command vehicles, bomb squad vehicles, police robots, helicopters and all terrain vehicles.

There will be many free give aways from the law enforcement agencies for those attending. For adults, free gun locks and steering wheel locks will be distributed. To help keep children safer, free fingerprinting, bicycle safety tips and bicycle helmet education will be on hand. In addition, working K-9 dogs from various agencies will show their skills throughout the day.

Fun and food will not be sparse for anyone attending the day's events for any age.

Non-military members must use the gate just off Swan and Golf Links Roads for base entrance. A shuttle service will be available to bus attendees from the parking lot just inside the Swan Road Gate to Heritage Park.

Those with access to the base are encouraged to access the event from the Craycroft Road Gate. Shuttles will also be available for base personnel from Smith and Borman Elementary Schools and from the base exchange parking lot. Only base personnel will be allowed on these shuttles. Base personnel wanting to park at other areas of the base and walk to the park will be allowed access to the Park from National Boulevard through the baseball field. Parking will be limited.

Purses and diaper bags will be allowed, but are subject to search before entering the park. Backpacks and food (except for bottled water, in clear containers) will not be allowed in the area.

For a glimpse of the job of a police officer, see Freeze; Putting their lives on the line, Page 15.

"Everyone should come out for the food, prizes, displays and most importantly to be educated on various safety and security issues," said Sergeant Faulk. "We hope we can help make Tucson and our surrounding areas safer place to live and work."

New armory enhances force protection

By Capt. Angela Smith
380th Air Expeditionary Wing Public Affairs

SOUTHWEST ASIA — Running an armory is serious business. On any given day, the armory serves about 120 people, safely transfers and accounts for deadly weapons and protects thousands of dollars in assets including handguns, rifles, shotguns and even grenade launchers.

"The space we had previously allocated was more like a hallway than an armory," said Maj. Greg Foster, 380th Expeditionary Security Forces Squadron commander. "It made it difficult to quickly issue weapons in event of hostilities. The physical makeup of the building didn't help much either."

The previous armory was a dilapidated storage warehouse. Thus, security forces here needed a fixed and secure structure to conduct its mission. "Weapons belong in a secure facility. Our new building allows us to better protect the weapons from dust and sand, gives us adequate space to clean our arms, conduct maintenance and secure our weapons and ammo behind concrete walls. The facility is also alarmed, putting it in compliance with Air Force standards," said Major Foster.

The new space allows 380th ESFS personnel to better utilize their resources.

"The new armory has more space to allow more weapon and equipment storage all in one central location. When maintenance must be conducted on a weapon, all I have to do is go from one room to the other instead of going from one building to another building," said Staff Sgt. La Tanya Hicks, NCO in charge of the armory here.

Furthermore, the armory benefits the entire wing, not just security forces.

"We store weapons for [explosive ordnance disposal], aircrews and other units. We are here to assist the base in any way we can. Our mission along with many others, is to defend the base and the base personnel. This armory greatly enhances that mission," said Staff Sgt. Jason McCoy, an armorer here who is deployed from Davis-Monthan Air Force Base.

The armory project took several months of diligent work and coordination between security forces, civil engineering, communications and other units. The project also included raising a tent for guardmount assembly and another tent for storage.

Setting up the armory was a "self-help" project. Security forces members dedicated hundreds of man-hours painting the walls, laying out carpeting and flooring, cleaning the building and arranging the work areas.

"The improvements that were made to the armory show that security forces is always willing to do what it takes to make things better for the entire base," Sergeant Hicks said.

Air dominance

The F/A-22 Raptor is the replacement for the F-15 Eagle. The Raptor combines a revolutionary leap in technology and capability with reduced support requirements and maintenance costs. The F/A-22's integrated avionics gives it first-look, first-shot, first-kill capability that guarantees U.S. air dominance for decades. In the air-to-air arena, the stealthy F/A-22 will be virtually unseen on radar, while its sophisticated array of sensors and advanced radar will allow it to reach out and strike adversary aircraft undetected from long range. Read up on the F/A-22 Raptor at <http://www2.acc.af.mil/library/FA22/index.htm>. Air Combat Command has designed the site to serve as a tool to educate people about the F/A-22 program, said Maj. Roger Lawson, chief of the ACC Public Affairs internal information division

Be a United States patriot for the noble cause

By Col. Bill George
355th Wing inspector general

During this time of year with Memorial Day, Flag Day and Independence Day approaching, I feel my patriotic juices start to flow.

What is a patriot? The dictionary defines a patriot as, "one who loves, supports and defends his or her country." No question, our founding fathers were patriots. Many laid down their lives for the noble dreams of:

"freedom" and "forming a more perfect union." They dreamed and fought for an ideal country where all men would be considered created equal and where men would be judged by the quality of their character and not their wealth. Where honor and integrity were codes by which leaders ruled.

Our more perfect union has not only survived for nearly 228 years, it has become the most powerful and prosperous nation on the earth. Do we take this for granted?

If you have any doubts why you are privileged to live in the United States of America let me put things into perspective.

If we could shrink the earth's population down to a village of precisely 100 people, 57 of those would be Asians, 21 Europeans, 14 from the Western Hemisphere, both north and south and eight Africans. Six people would possess 59 percent of the entire world's wealth and all six would be from the United States. Eighty of those 100 people would live in substandard housing, 70 would be unable to read, 50 would suffer from malnutrition. Only one would have a college education and only one would own a computer. If you have money in the bank and in your wallet, and spare change in a dish somewhere ... you are among the top eight percent of the world's wealthy.

Having great wealth and luxury compared to the rest of the world does not make me love my country. Sure, I appreciate it, but of utmost importance to me is the fact that the United States of America stands for freedom and it defends the rights of those who are unable to defend themselves in the face of tyrannical oppression. This is a noble cause for which we support and defend our national values. Because of this the United States will always triumph. Good always wins out over evil.

It is a natural law of the universe. This is why I love my country. It stands for what is right, good and true. That is why I am proud to serve my country by being a part of the greatest Air Force this world has ever known.

But, who has borne the brunt of preserving our freedoms and luxuries and helped the defenseless all across the globe? Time magazine answered this question for us in an article printed just before the year 2000. This article contained a list of the 10 most influential people of the entire world for the twentieth century. "The American GI" was named as the most influential person of the entire century.

Why? Because the American GI changed the course of human history more than anyone else in the world by the battles they fought and won in World Wars I and II and the Korean conflict. The GI did this by going the extra mile and with acts of sheer bravery in the face of unbelievable odds.

Why? Because the GIs of the past were patriots — they loved their country and served it with honor and distinction because they believed in what it stood for. This demonstrated to our enemies that American GIs do not give up and that victory belongs to the side that believes in a good and noble cause.

That same message is as clear today for our generation of American GIs as it was in years past—if we are patriots and continue to believe in our noble and good cause, we will win the war on terrorism. Being a suicide bomber is a dying cause. Being a patriot for a noble ideal is a living cause.

Be a United States patriot and live.

The Air Force Innkeeper Awards Program is presented annually to recognize lodging operations that provide the most outstanding hotel-type lodging and customer service to Air Force travelers.

The Inn on Davis-Monthan received the Air Combat Command award and recently received the Air Force-level award.

"This has been a two year process," said Dan Baker lodging manager. "You do not become an Innkeeper caliber operation overnight. You have to obtain that level of excellence and then maintain it. In the end, the customer wins because we undertook this journey."

The Inn on Davis-Monthan has renovated every visiting quarter in the last two years, overhauled the landscaping and has encouraged employees to accomplish professional training to reach industry certification.

Often, they are silent guardians. They patrol dark streets, stand tall on an empty flightline, man a post during pouring rain or blazing sun; always watching and protecting.

People pass them everyday. And when they do, a rapid pulse increase serves as a nonverbal reminder to check their speed and actions. Just another unspoken way they keep people safe, passing a reminder that arriving at the destination safely is the most important thing.

Highly trained, they put their lives on the line with every call or stopped car; their razor instincts ready to respond at less than a moments notice.

They are the men and women who have sworn to do whatever is in their power to shield the community and enforce the law. They are members of agencies ranging from the 355th Security Forces Squadron to the Pima County Sheriff's Department and they are proud to serve.

"My favorite part of the job is interacting with people," said Tech. Sgt. Gregory Padilla, 355th SFS Delta team member. "I am here to assist them any way I can."

But more than assist those in need, Sergeant Padilla is a part of a group working to get rid of those who pose a danger to others.

"As police, we are responsible for cleaning up the streets and keeping everyone safe," said Deputy Paul Petropoulos, Pima County Sheriff's Department Safe Street Unit team member. The Safe Street Unit targets high crime areas in Pima County with the goal of reducing street level crime.

It is through their common mission of providing support and protection that members of law enforcement agencies can work together to create a positive environment for all members of the community. But it is a job that affords no breaks.

"Most people don't think about the fact that we are always here," said Sergeant Padilla. "Through three day weekends, holidays and other celebrations, we are still manning our positions and doing our jobs."

Despite their continuous role, rarely do they receive appreciation from the average citizens they protect.

"We only see 10 percent of the population," said Sgt. Scott Lowing, Pima County Sheriff's Department Safe Street Unit Sergeant in charge. "Those people don't like us. But every once in a while we'll be at a restaurant and someone will pick up our tab. It's nice to know people appreciate what we are doing."

But regardless of the amount of recognition they receive, the pride many have for the job they are doing is apparent.

"If we can accomplish something out here to help someone, then it is all worth it," said Staff Sgt. Paul Bryant, 355th SFS Delta bike patrol team member.

Whether they are manning the gates to Davis-Monthan Air Force Base or getting drugs off of Pima County streets, the diligence of members of all law enforcement agencies ensure the entire community has a safe place to live, work and grow.

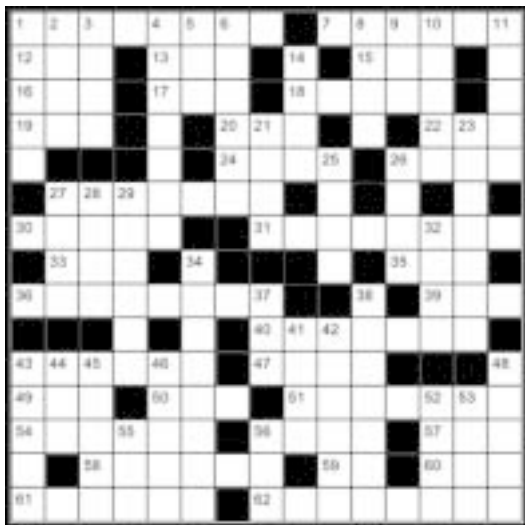

(Left) Deputy Paul Petropoulos, Pima County Sheriff's Department, questions the driver of a suspicious vehicle. (Above) Members of the Pima County Sheriff's Department search a driver and his passenger for weapons or drug paraphernalia.

Tech. Sgt. Gregory Padilla, 355th Security Forces Squadron, writes down a description of damage to a Ford Focus after its driver backed into another vehicle in base housing. Many minor accidents can be avoided if drivers remain cautious.
